

Why not postpone the vote on Broadcast Ownership rules to allow public comment on the proposal before the FCC? Most people are only just becoming aware this issue is before the FCC. What is the rush?

If FCC doesn't take the time to inform the public before this vote and foster a public debate on the issues, then the FCC is not acting the public interest. The FCC will simply be a tool of the giant media companies that stand to benefit from the passage of the proposed Broadcast Ownership rule changes.

POSTPONE THE VOTE. INFORM THE PUBLIC.
